VISITING SCHOLAR

The College welcomes HSU HSINN HSIUNG from Tapei, Taiwan, the Republic of China, who will be on campus during the fall.

Hsu is one of forty-five vocational technical scholars presently visiting the United States to learn about the way American faculty work and teach, and about their attitudes, to gain technical expertise, to assist in some teaching, and to learn about American life.

Hsu whose home is in Tapei, is a graduate of Provincial Teacher's College where he received a degree in art and education and from Tamkang College where he received his bachelor's degree in English. He comes to Greenfield from Tapei Municipal Teacher's College where he teaches teachers how to teach elementary art.

During the semester Hsu will be working in various programs at the College where his talents can best be utilized, and plans are being made for him to visit other area schools and colleges so that he can receive as broad a background in American education as possible.

He believes that his visit will enable him to bring another view of art to his pupils. "Language is a tool," he says, "and by learning English and being in this country I have another eye to see the world. The Chinese believe that man is a part of nature, and everything is arranged according to nature's design. By being here I can determine if the same view is held in the United States."

Hsu's wife and two children will remain in Tapei while he is staying with Tom Boisvert and Joanne Gardner in Northfield. He hopes to visit other faculty on week ends.

To: All College Personnel
From: The Personnel News and Notes Committee

Dear Colleagues,

This is the first issue of the all new Personnel News and Notes. It is our intention to publish two issues each semester this year so that everyone can be kept up to date on new faces, promotions and other personnel news.

As you can see, News and Notes has been expanded to six pages and has a new masthead. Also, because of new screening equipment available in the Media Center, we can now print our own photographs.

The success of this publication depends greatly on our getting information about employee activities as soon as they happen. Won't you please help us by calling one of the Committee members when you learn of news about your friends and colleagues at the College.

Of course, we always welcome your comments and suggestions as to how this publication can better serve your needs. Thank you.
